Investors flock to the high-quality, well-designed buildings produced at relatively low cost by MP Design Consulting. MP Design began their development work converting Brooklyn brownstones into condominiums. They hired architects to do layouts and then worked on the interiors from soup to nuts, including installation of flooring, moulding, and hardware. Four individual condo units were sold at record high prices for Park Slope.

Next, MP Design went to Manhattan to develop a Murray Hill townhouse (6,000 square feet). The townhouse, which was on an extrawide 25-foot-lot, was taken down completely to the ground and excavated. A new foundation and superstructure was erected, which expanded the entire 99-foot length of the lot. This new, 7-story brownstone is comprised of five luxury condominiums featuring culinary kitchens with state-of-the-art appliances (Wolfe, Sub Zero, Miele); custom stonework, moldings and cabinetry; radiant heating throughout, central air with HEPA filtration; wood-burning fireplaces; and the Crestron computerized home system.

The Murray Hill project has MP Design's signature high-quality craftsmanship: handcrafted cabinetry, crown work, moldings, doors, casings, and baseboards, all made and finished on site. Founder Mark Paritti explains MP Design's approach: "By creating craftsmanship like this it accomplishes three things; it brings back an old-fashioned way of doing things that creates a signature series of millwork that cannot be purchased anywhere. Quality that's unbeatable lasts forever. Cost effective and guaranteed."

MP Design is currently looking at the Hudson Square and Greenwich Village and downtown Brooklyn for its next development project.

We have extensive experience working on commercial properties in Brooklyn, Manhattan, and throughout the tri-state area. MP Design early on began receiving requests for contracting projects in storefronts, corporate lobbies, and art galleries. Eventually, as the company's reputation began building, largely through word-of-mouth, it received commissions for renovations of entire buildings. Past commercial projects include the 71 Park Avenue, Montauk Club, the Morgan Library, and Brooklyn Public Library.

Commercial clients need work done fast and well, and MP Design's special strength of being a one-stop-shop appeals to them. Their search ends when they hire MP, who can take care of all facets of renovation from doors to windows to tilework to marble to moldings. In addition, MP is equipped with all three trades. We have particular expertise and familiarity with the Hudson Square area, the East Village, and downtown Brooklyn.

Environmental sustainability is often a major concern for our commercial clients. All projects MP works on are done with every effort to be green.

Brownstone renovation is one of our specialties. MP Design has worked on over two hundred brownstone restorations, including landmarks, stripping these historic buildings down to their original woodwork, bringing in new hardware, perfecting front facades and wainscotting, creating impeccable flooring, and getting fireplaces fully operational.

As the saying goes, your home is your castle, and as such, it requires the highest quality care. MP Design Consulting, in business for over twenty years, will give your dwelling the treatment it deserves. We are both restoration artists and new construction masters. MP Design expertly constructs, restores, renovates, and outfits tri-state area kitchens, bathrooms, living rooms, dining rooms, bedrooms, decks, patios and any other space in or outside the house that needs attention. We also do total townhouses, brownstones, condos, and co-ops.

We understand that you don't think and design a project along the way. Before we begin work, we will meet and together plan for your project, taking into account both your taste and your budget. Plan in hand, we begin our work, utilizing our team of twenty-two employees, who have backgrounds in all the trades from lighting to plumbing to electric, bringing unparalleled experience in and vast knowledge of their fields.

Knowing that our clients have busy schedules, we are available to guide them through the sometimes overwhelming process of choosing such components as tiles, paints, cabinets, showerheads, sinks, faucets, appliances, and lighting fixtures. Our long history means that we have established relationships with a large network of vendors and permit-providers, and we provide catalogs and introductions to showrooms and warehouses where we can extend our discounts.

Working with MP Design ensures that your building project will be not only high quality, but low-stress.

Mark Pariti started out in the early eighties as a journeyman carpenter, as part of Woodworks, an outfit based in Brooklyn. He quickly developed a reputation for reliability, excellence, and speed. An early job for Woodworks was the construction of Metrotech Center in downtown Brooklyn, where Pariti oversaw a crew of forty-five carpenters and framers, the first sign of his knack for leadership.

While at Woodworks, Pariti found a specialty in windows, with particular expertise in windows found in landmark buildings like courthouses. These full-framed windows often had older details that made installation a challenging process. Pariti's early experience working on the courtroom windows instilled in him a respect and appreciation for pre-war construction, which would prove to be a vital component of his own business.

In 1986, Pariti formed Man at Work, which took off quickly, building up a clientele of over 250 clients. The name changed to Men at Work, as the business grew. Pariti became the go-to for Park Slope homeowners renovating brownstones. Soon, Pariti was doing restoration work for noteworthy properties such as the Montauk Club in Park Slope, the Brooklyn Museum in downtown Brooklyn, and the Morgan Library and Lincoln Center in Manhattan. He also began renovating summer homes and created spec houses in the Hamptons, Fire Island and Arizona.

He continued to do renovation and restoration work while also successfully moving into development. He began with brownstones in Park Slope, and then moved into Murray Hill, where he took a four-story townhouse and developed it into high-end boutique condominiums. Future development plans include Hudson Square, Greenwich Village and downtown Brooklyn.

In 2007, Pariti changed names again to reflect his business' emphasis on well-designed work. MP Design Consulting's success rests on reliability, exceptional quality while remaining green, high-end finishes, employees with valuable experience and great relationships with subcontractors. In an era of big box stores, Pariti offers an increasingly rare sensitivity: He and his team listen closely to their clients, ensuring a finished product that not only is high quality but also fulfills the client's original vision.
