Spectacular Skiing at Big Sky

Twin Lift is ski-in/ski-out with the White Otter Lift only a hop, skip, and a jump away from the house—in other words, about a two hundred foot walk from the front door.

A peek outside the Twin Lift's windows allows you to quickly assess the state of the slopes on any given day. Over the past few years, the conditions have been optimal for skiers: cold and snowy. If you're not in the mood for skiing, you can pursue other winter activities, like sleighing and snowboarding. Unlike other resorts, Big Sky and Moonlight Basin retain somewhat of an undiscovered-gem quality, having yet to be overrun by international tourists, so there's still ample room on the mountains and trails that challenge all skill levels. Twin Lift itself is an ideal place to retreat between runs, with its big workroom for storing equipment and a boot drying rack. After getting out of your gear, you can rest your weary bones, by cozying up around large stone fireplace or relaxing in the hot tub.

Summer Fun in Montana

Check Availability

Summer draws visitors eager to bliss out in nature, and the Big Sky and Moonlight Basin resorts and surrounding areas, especially Yellowstone with its famous Gallatin River, offers plenty of opportunities to savor summer's delights.

Water activities like fly fishing and white water rafting are available on Gallatin. Hiking and biking are also popular recreation options for Twin Lift visitors. The high altitudes make it excellent training ground before races. Those who might gravitate toward less intense experiences of the outdoors can still enjoy strolls through meadows and hiking and biking in flatter areas, with chances for bird-watching. The resorts offer a dizzying array of activities, among them a zipline, a climbing wall, golfing, and horseback riding. At the end of the day, kick back and watch the sunset while grilling outside on one of our patios.
